The SCHOOL

The old proverb of the Athenians, "Nothing in excess," is still a watchword to the educator of today, for the essence of its truth is enduring. Those who live in a democracy and have undertaken the training of its youth know this full well. They recognize the ever-present danger that in providing for all the children of all the people they may sacrifice for the many, opportunities they should offer the few. They cannot in conscience allow those who come to them to be frustrated by struggles to attain intellectual standards beyond them, or dulled by never being challenged to mental effort. For all there must be both the discipline and the pleasure of learning.

Bay View has experimented for some time with a two-channel approach in various subjects. In mathematics, for example, parallel courses are given. The one is completely practical; the other approaches the practical through the theoretical.

Every course is open to all who qualify for it, and the student chooses in large part on the basis of his interest or his recognized need. Always, as ours is a school in a democracy, there is not cultivation of intellectual snobbery. The fluidity of the American social structure still continues here.

DR. BERNHARD C. KORN, Principal

Vice-Principal

The administrative staff at Bay View, working under the principal, is organized with a vice-principal, a dean of girls, and four counselors. The vice-principal supervises the work of all new teachers and tries to help them to understand the necessary regulations, and to get the feel of the school. It is his task, too, to check on all absentees, for it is obvious that only if students appear regularly in class is it possible for teachers to give adequate instruction. It is necessary to check any tendency to malingering, and at the same time to urge no seriously ill student to attempt to keep going at school. Everyone is made to understand both by his class-room teacher and by the vice-principal that all class work missed by absence must be made up.

MR. DONDLINGER

MR. WILEY, Counselor Chairman

Each freshman who enters Bay View from the Milwaukee schools has had an opportunity to visit his new high school and has had his program planned carefully for him. This has been done by his counselor in consultation with him, his eighth grade teacher, and his parents, if they desire to be present. The counselor is the first Bay View teacher to meet him and one of the last to bid him farewell when his four years are over.

As soon as he is enrolled, he is sent to a homeroom teacher, who then undertakes to help him adjust to a new environment. This teacher plans with him a four-year program, which, of course, is subject to change as he develops new interests, or the original selections seem unwise. Parents understand the entire four-year plan and request changes when they are desired. As far as possible, a student stays for four years with the same counselor and the same homeroom teacher.

Every high school student knows that full information about his scholarship and his extra curricular activity is always on file. He knows that before he is graduated teachers will report on such qualities of character as his cooperation, dependability, leadership, efficiency, and emotional control. He knows the record on him will be kept, and much of it will be available on request when he seeks employment or enrolls at an institution of higher learning.

But far more important is the feeling brought home to him day by day, semester after semester, in many conferences, that his personality and his accomplishments are matters of real concern to counselor and homeroom teacher, that they care about what happens to him. And the graduates who return every year to visit with their counselors and homeroom teachers are ample proof that they felt a security grounded in the interest teachers showed in them.

MISS STATZ, Dean of Girls

Mr. Suttle, Mr. May, Miss Steel, Miss Lane.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Terry Rockafellar, President; Ralph Heisel, Sergeant-at-Arms; Marlene Janacek, Historian; Richard Klaesing, Second Vice-President; Carla Papenfus, Secretary; Jack Wuebben, First Vice-President; Jackie Schaefer, Treasurer.

In all of its seven years of existence here at Bay View, the Student Government Association has operated on the principle that the individual should take on as much responsibility as he shows himself capable of handling. This year it was especially evident that the students as a whole accepted this principle and agreed that privileges granted must not be abused.

When a wave of vandalism occurred, students of all grade levels banded together to protect themselves against it, and brought the culprits to justice. All realized that the individual has certain social responsibilities, and, when the Corridor Committee was organized, the support given it was vigorous.

Other S.G.A. groups continued working to improve student conditions around the school. The noon-hour activity committee sponsored movie serials, chess and checkers, and knitting circles, while the auto registration committee campaigned for safe driving and initiated the official Bay View decal for all cars used for transportation to and from school.

HOME ROOMS

Each morning all Bay View students meet in their respective homerooms for the purpose of guidance and preparation for the school day. They hear general announcements that pertain to school activities and are given by student announcers, whose script has been approved by the principal. During this period, they assist the homeroom teacher in the completion of any necessary school records.

Every afternoon, at the close of all regular classes, students again report to homerooms. Then their teachers check all appointments they may have made for the eight-hour activity period, so that students may be located in any emergency.

The eighth hour every Wednesday is a special guidance period in the homerooms. Programs are scheduled to meet the interests of particular grade levels. Freshmen are given aid in orientation; sophomores are led to extra curricular interests. Personality development is the subject for juniors, and vocational guidance, for seniors. During their last year students take vocational interest tests, and are asked to indicate their plans for the future.

ACTIVITIES

THE ANNUAL

Early last fall the pictures for the introductory section of the Annual were taken, and the 1953 yearbook was on its way. With ever increasing momentum the school activities began producing the material necessary to publish The Oracle. Consideration and willingness to help on the part of both students and faculty made possible the completion of those tasks which could not have been done by the staff alone. Countless students assisted in indexing, identifying pictures, writing captions, and typing.

Staff members took over various responsibilities. The business department handled the collection of fees and the distribution of annuals. The advertising staff secured the advertising necessary for the financial backing of the yearbook. The art department designed the cover and division pages and planned the layouts. The senior editors supervised the taking of the senior pictures and compiled the biographies of the graduates. The organization staff was responsible for all pictures and write-ups concerning the athletic and activities sections.

When the whole story is told, it is evident that those whose faces appear in this Annual section assumed the responsibility of organizing the events of 1952-'53 so that another Annual could be published and placed beside the thirty-two others that have preceded it.

THE NEWSPAPER

The very first activity that gets under way in September and the very last that finishes the school year in June is The Oracle newspaper. In fact, the editors come to school to plan and write copy for the first issue of the paper before classes officially begin on the Wednesday after Labor Day. On the second Friday, only eight days after school opens, a paper is in the hands of every Viewite.

Preparation for each issue begins with the familiar words, "All students interested in writing for the paper, come to the assignment meeting in room 322." Reporters then write the stories, and editors edit and headline the copy to be published. The stories are brought back from the shop on galleys, which are proofed and reproofed to correct any mistakes in punctuation and spelling.

Then comes "paste-up day," and Room 417, The Oracle Office, bustles with activity because work for the staff is at its peak. Stories must be fitted on the page much in the way a jigsaw puzzle is put together; additional news must be "dug up" to fill extra space; headlines must be rewritten to give the page "balance." The final work is done at the print-shop, where "page proofs" are checked and final alterations are made.

Such is the story every two weeks as all the staff members assume responsibility, see a job through to actual publication, and experience real life situations in dealing with people in and beyond the school building.

Much progress was made during the school year by the club which looms as the "center of attraction" for the boys at Bay View. The club, because of its varied list of service sections, had set as its aim "More service to Bay View," rather than providing only entertainment for its members. The club also took a big step toward increasing interest and participation in athletics by organizing a Major Lettermen's club.

For the first time in Boys' Club history, 9B's were invited to become members, the Club holding separate meetings, alternating the freshman-sophomore members with the junior-senior members.

The sports program was given a real boost through the organization of an intramural basketball league, the Club presenting a trophy to the winners.

Other activities included in the Club's service sections were the Flag Crew, Fire Wardens, Air Raid Wardens, Cheerleaders, Civil "Defenders," and the athletic-program publicists.

GIRLS' CLUB

Nine hundred of Bay View's girls joined the Girls' Club in 1952-'53. Although the club is primarily a social organization, some of its committees performed services for the entire school. One group had charge of the lunch-hour game rooms for the S.G.A.; another served as fire wardens. The annual canned-food drive at Thanksgiving was sponsored by all the members.

The regular meetings offered opportunities for the girls to participate in the programs either as planners, directors, performers, or members of an audience group. And, of course, the Girls' Dance Band was "the" innovation of the year. The "Freshman Tea of Welcome" and the "Farewell Senior Party" were two social achievements of the year, and the "Style Show" added the good-grooming note that brought the stole, the boxy suit, and "dacron" into the high school girl's wardrobe.

ROUND TABLE

Round Table, in the 1952-'53 school year, continued to try to bring to its members worthwhile programs. To do this, the officers and advisors decided again to divide the club into sections. In this manner they hoped to promote more individual participation. The sections decided upon were Dramatics, Debate, Choral Reading, Current Events, and Stagecraft. These five were closely associated with the purpose of Round Table as a single group: "A literary organization devoted to the intellectual and cultural activities of the student."

The club's most important project of the year was its sponsorship of a needy war orphan, Spyridoula Theodorow, a young Greek girl. Through an international agency, good food, clothing, and other necessities were sent to her. The club hoped this would aid world goodwill and give greater hope for the future.

As its annual all-school movie, Round Table presented "The Fight For Peace," a documentary film concerning the two turbulent decades between World Wars I and II. Programs produced for the membership alone included debates on current topics, one-act plays, and literary-musical presentations.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLUB

OFFICERS, SEMESTER I

Betty Wesolowski, S.G.A. Representative; Corrine Patti, Secretary; Richard Czeszynski, Sergeant-at-Arms; Kay Priebe, President. Bob Watson, Treasurer.

Wanted: A better world, freely populated with good, understanding, peace-loving people.

This past year Foreign Language Club tried to answer this ad by studying the people of other lands, their customs, and their way of life, and by shattering one of the greatest obstacles on the road to an understanding world—that of the language barrier. All of the bi-weekly meetings held in East Study Hall were devoted to world understanding through knowledge of the foreign language.

Foreign Language Club presented two all-school color movies: one, presented by Clifford Kames, called "Italy"; and the other, "Caravan to Tibet" with Nicol Smith. A sellout auditorium attested to the popularity of these two presentations.

At the annual banquet held just before Christmas, the over one-hundred members attending listened with pleasure to Mill Ylva Ramstrom, a Swedish exchange student, who told of Christmas customs in her homeland.

The Foreign-Language pin winners, by merit of their averages, included Jean Olson and Ralph Rockafellar, Latin; John Schmidt and Barbara Ryan, Spanish.

X CLUB

X Club concentrated during the past year on the stimulation of interest in scholastic achievement. It awarded honor plaques each report card period to the leading homerooms, with a special presentation for the 9B's in order to introduce the club to them. At some of the meetings members discussed high averages and gave information on scholarships. After a student has received four "excellents" in a row, he is entitled to buy an X Club pin.

Tours to less familiar parts of the school were conducted each semester for younger members. A real highlight of the year was the visit of Miss Hone Lin, who took members on a vicarious journey to Burma and stressed Burma's problem of providing schools and books for the thousands newly interested in education. "Only awakened concern on the part of all people, not only of the Burmese," said Miss Hone Lin, "can make this possible."

LIBRARY GUILD

This year's Library Guild saw new additions to the library: phonograph records which could be borrowed over night, a book shelf for new books covered with cellophane jackets, and a suggestion box into which any pupil could drop requests as to types of books or magazines desired.

The eye-appealing displays on the bulletin board encouraged the students in the selection of books, and the frequent skits and announcements informed the students of changes in library policy. Perhaps the most exciting of all the activities sponsored by the Guild was the Annual Book Week Contest.

Among the activities of the Guild were the decorating of a homecoming float, visiting the Allen-Bradley Library, attending a tea at Rufus King, leading a library monitors' discussion at North Division, and holding an organizational library cadet-meeting at South Division.

The Science Club was organized to give the scientifically minded pupil more time to satisfy his curiosity about the world around him. The sectional meetings, with about thirty pupils in each section, have proved to be very valuable, because they enable the pupils to be active participants in their club work. However, general meetings for all members were called whenever good scientific lectures or demonstrations were available.

The seven sections of the Science Club are General Science, Naturalists, Home Gardening and Landscaping, Chemistry, Camera, Aeronautics, and Picture Projection. Some of the interesting projects included in the various sections were the making of cosmetics, propagating African violets, making model airplanes, and coloring photographs.

The general meetings sponsored by the Science Club this year were "Sunny Iceland," by Hal Linker; "The Miracle of Light," by the Electric Company; and "The Grass Forest," by Mr. Robert Hermes.

RADIO CREW AND ANNOUNCERS

"Good morning, Bay View. This is your announcer . . ."

Twice per day, during the morning homeroom period and before the eighth hour, the student announcers and radio crew combined efforts to bring information about school activities to the student body and faculty. The announcers were chosen through a process of elimination by the senior English and speech classes. These classes rated the contestants upon diction, tone quality, and interpretation.

Without the radio crew, however, the announcers could not get "on the air," but putting them there has not been the only duty of this group. They have also filled the requests for tape recordings, record players, and for the use of the public address system for all public performances.

The responsibility of showing the noon-hour movies and the club travelogues, and of putting the carbon-arc spot-lights on the various performers in the all-school productions was assigned to the Bay View spot crew.

The property crew had the responsibility of providing the various equipment for the class play and the operetta. It was their duty not only to provide the props but also to see that they were kept in good condition and were in the right place when needed. "Timed for action!"

The stage crew was the group that assumed the tasks of setting the scenery for all stage performances. Their responsibility also included setting the stage for the movies, music festival, and commencement programs.

ART CLUB

OFFICERS

Donald Harvey, S.G.A. Representative; Arlene White, Secretary; Richard Kraft, President.

The Art Club is usually engaged in a number of projects which include work for the school's class plays, publications, music festivals, operettas, and publicity for a number of school events in-and-around Bay View High.

Another of Art Club's big attractions for '53 was its traditional all-school art exhibit, presented every spring for the enjoyment of the students who do not belong to the club as well as for the artists who "create" the show.

Art Club's 1953 purchase from the Wisconsin Painters' and Sculptors' Show is an oil painting entitled "Fourth Street Progress" by Mel Kishner; it has been added to Bay View's rapidly growing corridor collection of "Fine Art."

USHERS' CLUB

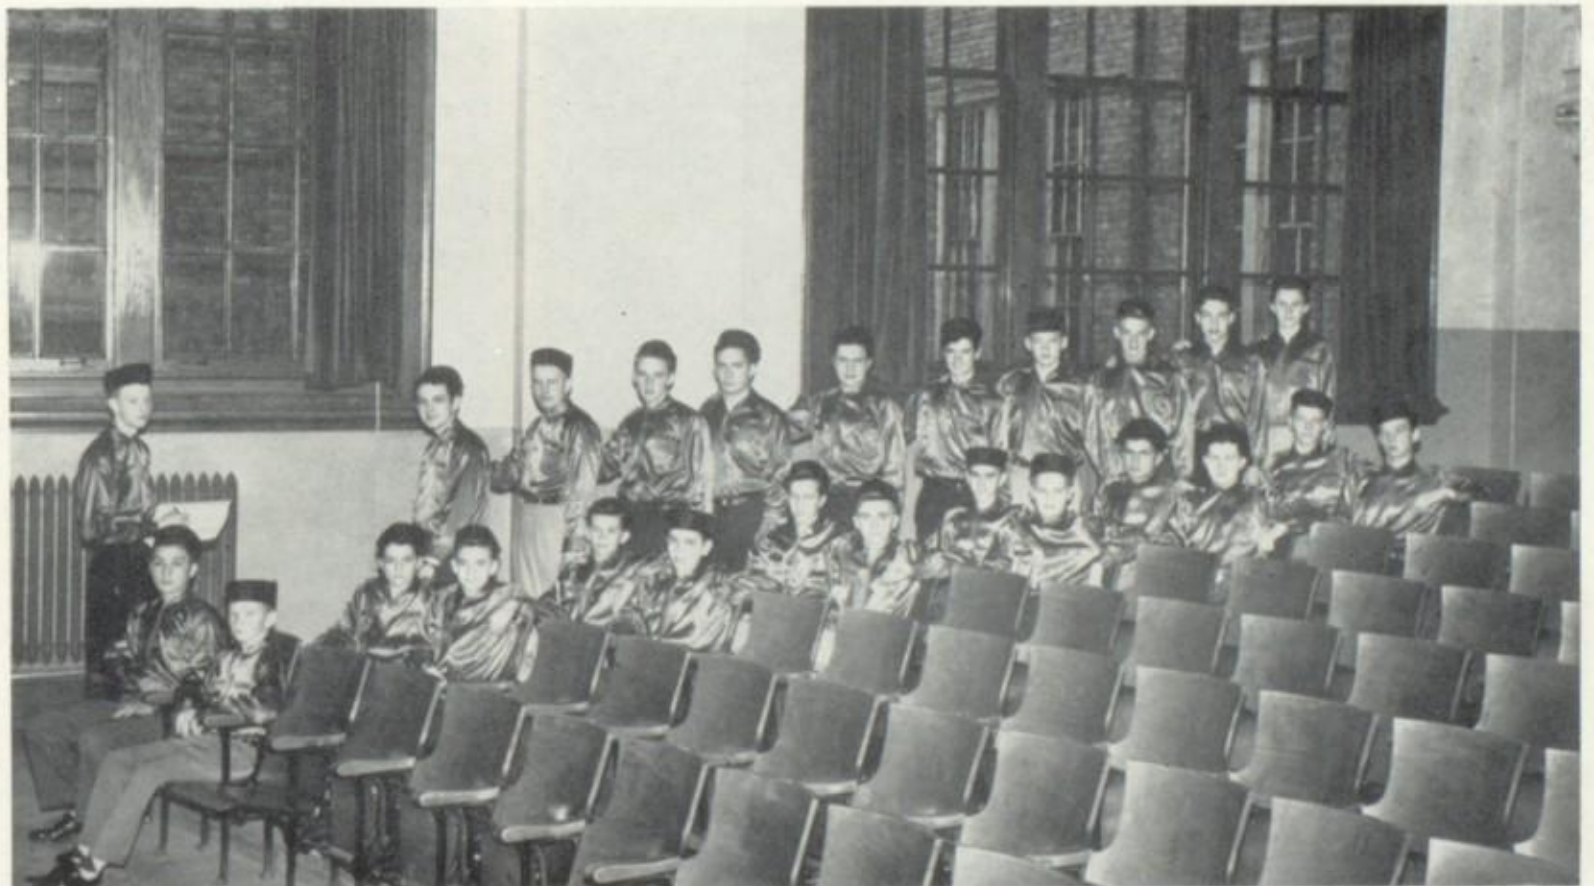

HAGEN'S CREW

As has been the custom for many years, the Usher Corps again wore the scarlet shirt, black trousers with a red stripe down each side, and the famed Johnny cap, all adding color and dignity to the class play, music festival, operetta, and commencement programs.

The corps was divided into two groups, each headed by a student supervisor. The two supervisors appointed aisle heads who politely asked the people, as they came into the auditorium, for their ticket stubs and told them to follow an usher who would lead them to their seats.

Twenty-five experienced boys made up the group called "convocation ushers" and hastened the seating at special convocations.

The Usher Corps again filled the auditorium for its annual talent show in the fall, contributing a generous portion of the proceeds to a fund for needy pupils.

A comfortable, old-fashioned home, nestled in the backwoods of Connecticut, was the perfect setting for the 1953 class play, "January Thaw."

Mr. Gage, a writer who had purchased the country dwelling in hopes of finding peace and quiet, suddenly found himself and family in the middle of a hopeless feud. The former owners, the Rockwoods, returned and having the legal right to stay, moved their belongings in and stubbornly refused to budge from their old homestead.

Heated arguments over coffee-grinders, family portraits, politics, and modern "inconveniences" were the source of humor throughout the dialogue. Then came "January" and with the aid of a blizzard, things finally simmered down, the "thaw" coming when each generation, the old and the young, found something good in the other.

FINALE, ACT I

"KISS ME KATE"

"Kiss Me Kate" took place backstage and during rehearsals of "The Taming of the Shrew." When the first scene opened, the cast had just finished a rehearsal and were ready for "Another Opening, Another Show."

With an array of popular hit-tunes and spry dances the operetta thrilled the audiences. Such songs as "Wonderbar," "So In Love," "Tom, Dick, or Harry," "I Hate Men," and "Were Thine That Special Face" were among the many favorites. A parade of dancers brightened the stage with their colorful Shakesperian costumes and their Elizabethan "dignity," quite fitting for the coronation year of 1953.

BAND

SOLOISTS

Richard Duval, Diane Frederick, Phillip May.

Each year the Bay View Band takes particular pride in presenting to its football enthusiasts its excellent half-time performances. Each and every member of the band is thrilled when dressed in full uniform. He becomes an individual who is looked up to by his fellow classmates. All credit for the band is given to the persistence and patience of Director M. D. Williams.

With the closing of the '52 football season, Mr. Williams succeeded in converting a loud football band into a beautiful-sounding symphonic organization. He paged through his extensive music library in order to find selections which later would prove pleasing to his concert audiences. Jerome Kern's "Who" announced the arrival of the band into the Music Festival in January. Next was Leidzen's "One World." Mr. Williams then combined the dance band with the Boys' Glee Club in the presentation of "Somewhere Along the Way" and "Auf Wiedersehen Sweetheart," followed by "Prelude in G Minor." Fred Hemke exhibited technique and skill in his saxophone rendition of Gurewich's "Capriccio." A trumpet trio consisting of Phil May, Diane Frederick, and Dick Duval played the "Three Gaybriellos," and "The Peck-Horn's Revenge" concluded the band's part in the concert.

ORCHESTRA

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Dietrich, has long maintained an almost-professional status. As the main body of the orchestra is composed of stringed instruments, string players who might not otherwise have an opportunity to perform, have a chance to do so. The enthusiastic musician has numerous occasions on which to prove his ability, namely in class play, operetta, and commencement orchestras.

The orchestra opened the 1953 Music Festival with Beethoven's "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor," and followed with Grieg's "The Last Spring." A long ominous roll of the tympani introduced Jean Wegener, who exhibited her skill on the piano by playing Grieg's "Concerto in A Minor." In the orchestra's last appearance, Mr. Dietrich combined lighting and scenery with contemporary music in his presentation of "Blue Tango" and "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue." This combination was something new in Bay View and was enthusiastically accepted by the audience.

At this year's class play "January Thaw" the orchestra played "The Belle of the Ball," "Knightsbridge March," and selections from "Kiss Me Kate." All in all, the orchestra has made 1953 a truly musical year.

THE COACHES

Coaches, Nader, Callahan, Kaczmarek, Mierzwa.

Mr. Mierzwa, head-coach, was assisted in 1952-'53 by Merlin Nader, backfield mentor, and Ed Callahan, line coach.

Coach Mierzwa, shifting the attack from the single wing to the split T, stressed physical fitness; and every evening, the Redcat squad could be seen going through its rigorous schedule of calisthenics. The squad climaxed the '52 season with four impressive victories, bringing Bay View into the first division in the conference, with a record of five wins and three defeats.

The Redcats opened the season by losing to Rufus King with a 25 to 7 score. The Generals had too much speed for the Cats, and Coach Mierzwa blamed the defeat on too much time required learning new plays and not enough concentration on defense to stop King's speedy backs.

Next was the game with City Champion Tech. Again the combination of four backs was too much for the boys to handle; the Trojans downed the Cats 34 to 6.

Lincoln provided well-matched opposition for Bay View, and the Cats came out on top with a 19-6 victory for their first Conference win.

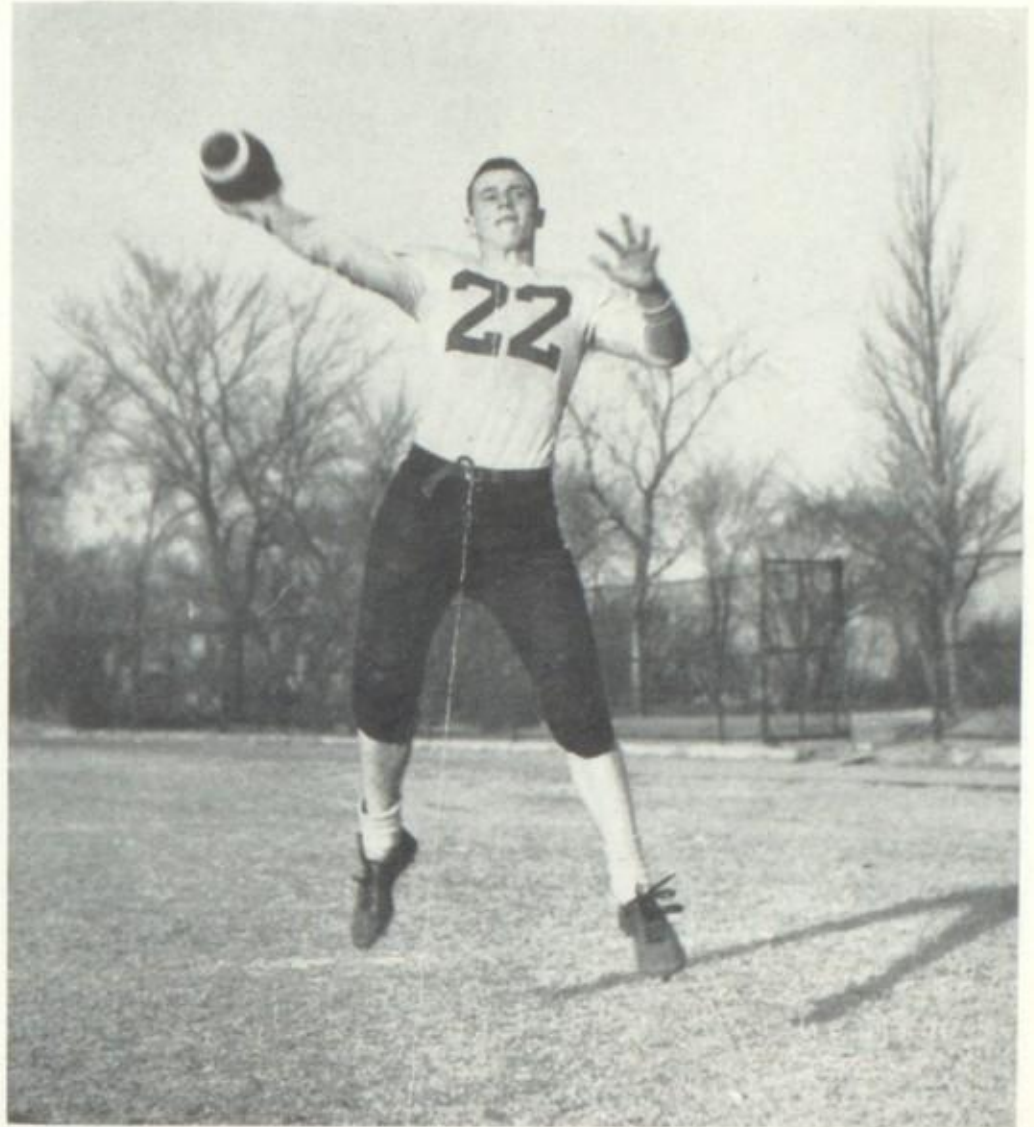

FOOTBALL

Two pass-interceptions and a fumble helped Riverside's Tigers to hand Bay View its last defeat of the season, 20-0. From here on the Redcats proved that they had mastered the split T and became a winning ball club. Juneau was the next opponent on the schedule, and Bay View came through with a 40-0 win, a win during which Mierzwa emptied the bench.

"Homecoming" was the word, as the Redcats met South Division, and many grads returned to see Bay View humble the Cardinals, 13-0, the clincher being a 70 yard pass play, Laude to McLarnon.

The Redcats were forced to come from behind to down Custer and run their winning streak to three in a row. In the third quarter, with the Redmen leading 14-6, Perez returned a kick-off 70 yards, and later tied the score. Then, in the final seconds, Bruce Thurber saved the game on a 37-yard end-around for a touchdown to make the final score Bay View 19, Custer 14.

Our traditional rival, Pulaski, was scheduled to close the season for Bay View, and the Redcats, again coming from behind, captured a 13-6 win, and thus ended a spirited and successful football season.

CROSS COUNTRY

Coach Matthei with Dale Weigert and Jack Weason.

The 1952 cross-country squad, improving their '51 record, upheld the Redcat dominance of the South Side by taking the Championship for the ninth time in ten years, paced by Captain Jack Weason and outstanding juniors Dale Weigert, Dick Rutzen, and Jim Bennett. The only record broken in the season was tripped by Dale Weigert, who ran the 2.2 mile course in Humboldt Park in 10.44/3.

The Redcats started the season with an upset victory over South, 26-30, and followed it by beating Tech, 23-32. Pulaski fell to Bay View, 17-39. With Lincoln bowing 16-45, Coach Matthei's boys took their 31st straight dual-meet victory, continuing the streak started in 1946. Hartford also was defeated, 24-31.

A record-breaking Washington squad took the City Championship for the second time. The Redcats finished second, one place higher than in '51. Out of the field of 17 teams in the State Class-A Championship, Bay View came in fifth. In the Midwest Championship at Janesville the Redcats improved their last year's performance, winding up sixth in the group of 23 teams.

The B-Team had a successful season, winning three of their dual meets, dropping only one. Robert Heule won the city championship, leading the Kittens to take second place in the meet. In the Midwest Class-B championship they took third place, John Kraczak winning third place individually.

BASKETBALL

Bay View's basketball squad began the season under a new head coach, Merlin Nader, employing a new system, "the fast break." Although their 4 wins out of 11 games were not overly impressive, Pulaski's Ramblers, traditional rivals, will long remember how those Cat claws can scratch.

The Cats opened the conference by defeating Custer, but then were defeated by Washington, King, Lincoln, and Juneau, before reaching their season's peak in upsetting Pulaski, 62-58, in an overtime thriller at Pulaski. Then came three successive defeats at the hands of North, South Division, and Riverside before the boys ended the season with a pair of victories over West and Tech.

By defeating Tech, Bay View entered the Regional Tournament at Racine, but drew South, the City Champion, as their first opponent and were defeated, thus being eliminated from the tourney.

SWIMMING

Coach Crowford's boys started their season with a victory over North Division, 44-39, at the North Natatorium. Powerful suburban Shorewood swamped the Finmen 62-17 at Shorewood. In the following conference games Bay View bowed to South, 56-25; East, 59-24; and Pulaski, 52-31. Boys' Tech only narrowly got past the Redcats, getting only one first too many to drop Bay View in the 42-39 "thriller."

The Redcats came close again in the West Milwaukee meet but were nosed out, 43-32. Shaking the defeat trail, the Finmen stopped Lincoln for a second victory, 49-34; and a third by dropping Cudahy in a non-conference meet, 48-34, in Bay View's own pool. West Milwaukee beat the Redcats for the second time, 53-30, and the city meet saw the Finmen wind up the season by coming in fifth of the eight teams.

TRACK

Don Cinkosky, Gerald Gutkowski, Dale Weigert.

With veteran material returning from the 1953 squad which had won the State Sectionals at Kenosha, a second in the South-Side Championship, a second in the South-Side Relays, and a fourth in the City Meet, the Redcat track picture for 1953 looked good.

Jerry Gutkowski, out to retain his title as the city 440 and 880-yard champ, headed the list of returning lettermen. Other lettermen who returned included Ron Bird in the 100, Don Cinkosky in the 200, Dick Rutzen in the mile, Dale Weigert in the 880, Wayne Wallis in the weights, and Jim Clemence in the broad jump and high jump, and Ron Weber in the pole vault.

The teams opened the '53 season by appearing in the Journal Games at the Arena. The relay team, composed of Ralph Perez, Don Tuler, Tony Kubek, and Don Cinkosky, running in that order, placed second to East Division in their heat, and were therefore limited from further competition.

Next came appearances in two indoor meets: the Municipal Indoor Meet, and the Wisconsin State Relays, both at Baker fieldhouse. In the latter meet, the Redcats won three of the four heats in which they were entered, but their times were not good enough for a first-place ranking.

THE COUNCIL

BASKETBALL

To acquaint the Freshmen with the athletic program for the school year, the G.A.A. Council issued its first hand book, which includes a statement of the purpose of G.A.A., the sports offered, awards available, requirements for membership.

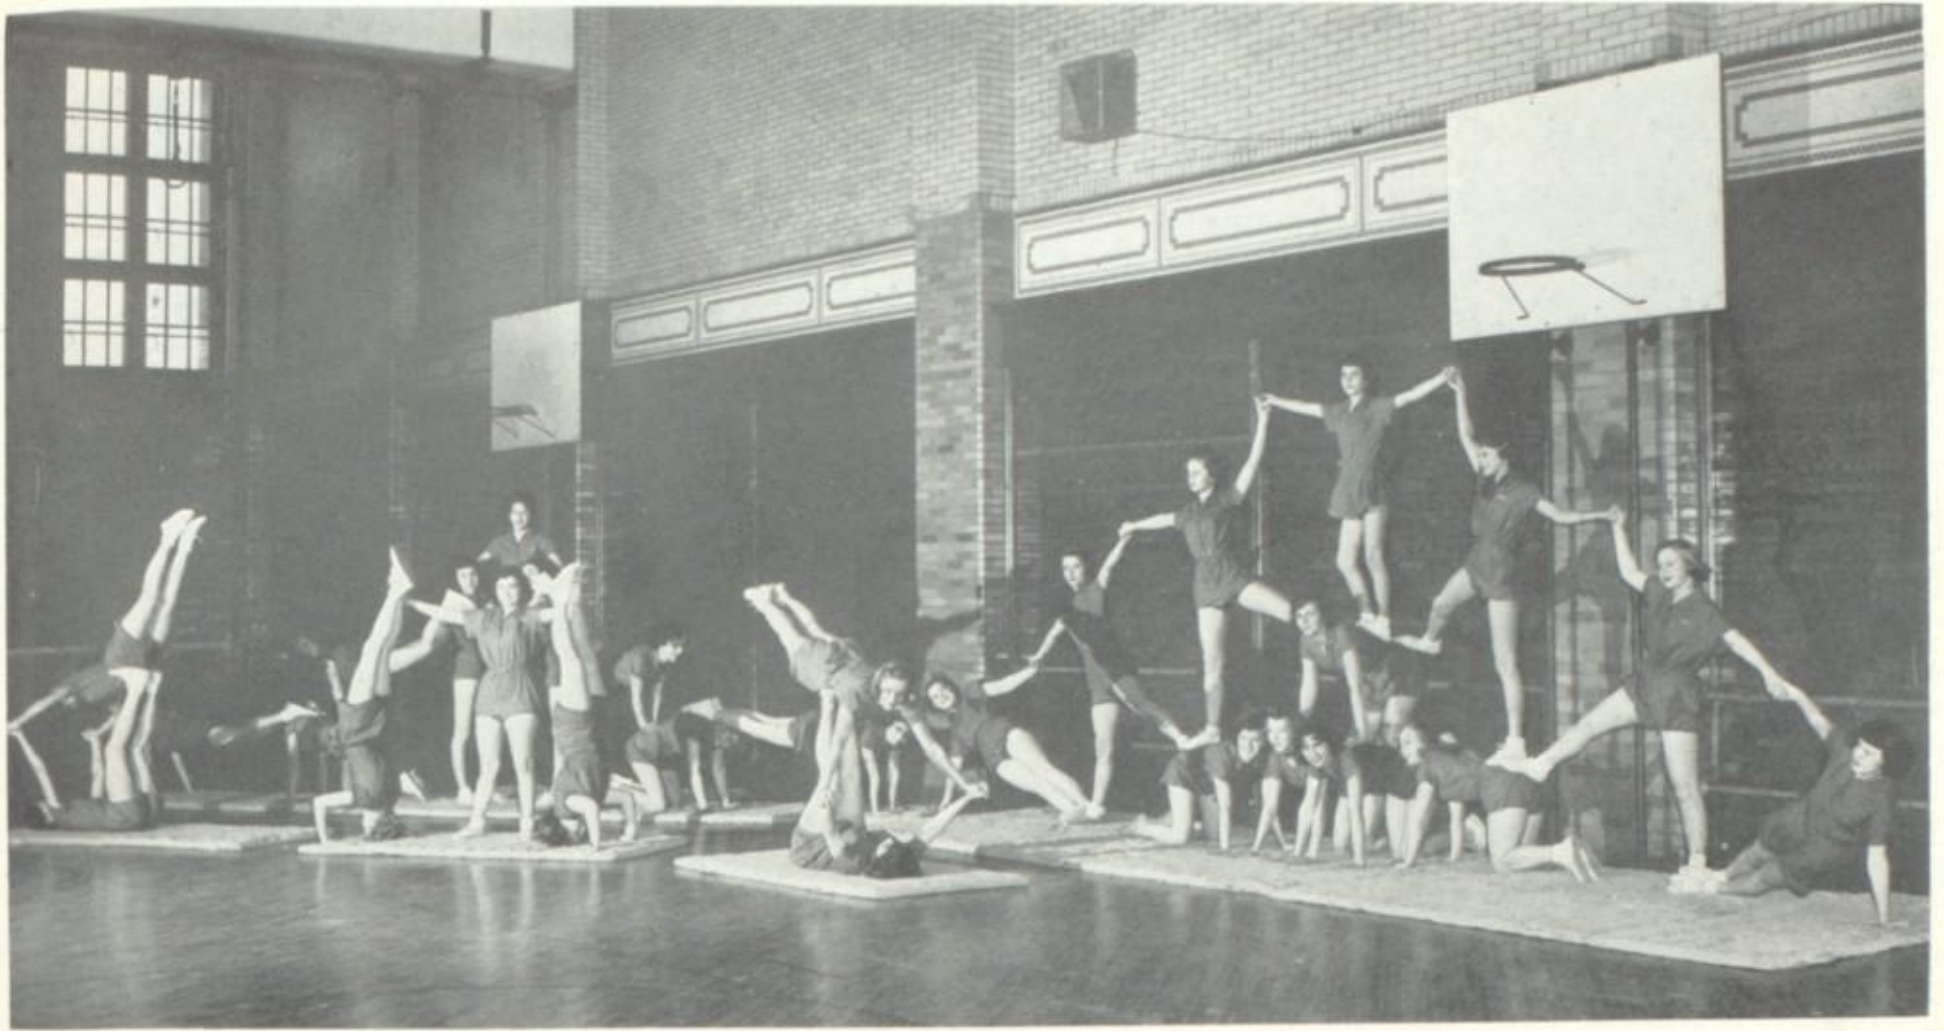

The fall program was opened with singles and doubles tennis tournaments, which were highly competitive because former winners were back to defend their title. Hockey was played once a week at Lewis Field and bowling, at Lake View Lanes.

The winter schedule found many students competing in basketball, and spring offered a badminton tournament. Throughout the year the in-door activities included apparatus work, tumbling, and the Modern Dance.

The aquatic life of G.A.A. presented a colorful water ballet called "Nautical Nations" and an inter-class swimming meet. The Life-Saving Corps initiated a recreational swim period for all interested girls.

This well-rounded athletic program made a vital contribution to the well-being of each girl who availed herself of the opportunities offered.

GRADUATION NOTES

The 1949 Oracle Annual shows them standing there, solemn for the most part, very childish, very earnest. The three groups are having their first pictures taken in the auditorium, and the boys have all dutifully brought their own ties for the occasion.

How they were to change in the four short years of high school! The three homerooms of freshmen were to shrink so much during the sophomore and junior years that only two homerooms were to graduate. All the boys were to grow taller, more mature. The girls, too, were to acquire a certain sophistication that comes with growing up.

From freshies who didn't know much about Bay View, they were to become seniors knowing every phase of school life. Some took an interest in athletics and carved their niche in Bay View athletic history. Others were to become prominent school musicians and actors in the class plays or operettas. A curiosity about newspaper work led many of them to take places on the Oracle staff or even culminated in their reaching such heights as news editor, literary editor, and editor-in-chief.

Many of them, not content with participation in classroom activities, showed their leadership by serving as officers of school clubs and organizations. The equality of leadership, combined with popularity, was shown especially by those who were chosen to be members of the class commission. They were the ones who collected all class dues, chose the color of the caps and gowns, planned the dinner dance, and decided on the class gift to the school.

GRADUATION NOTES

On a day in early September, 1949, over three-hundred eager freshmen entered Bay View for the first time. This class, they thought, was going to be different from any that had preceded them. No one could try bubbler passes, algebra shoes, elevator keys or wrong directions on them. Then slowly they began to accept, with good spirit, the taunts directed at them, and finally they became second semester students, "freshmen," not "freshies."

Then came their sophomore year. That was the year that they were really able to take their place in Bay View activities. They were no longer the butt of the jokes and the ridicule of the upper classmen. They were even guilty of looking down on the new freshmen. After their sophomore year, they were mighty juniors and taking over Bay View.

This year, 1953, they have reached the epitome of success as seniors of Bay View. It hardly seems possible to them that only four short years ago they were starting out. In those four years they have come to be very fond of Bay View, of their teachers, and of their classmates; also some of their members have become influential leaders of Bay View's clubs and activities.

They have shown their appreciation of five classmates who have contributed to Bay View through sports, student government or various other activities by electing them to the class commission. This group has been given the job of collecting class dues, planning the senior dinner dance, selecting the caps and gowns, and deciding on the class memorial. Theirs has been a big job well done.

... the mark of an outstanding motor

The familiar L. A. that identifies each motor built by The Louis Allis Co. is more than a mere trademark. These two distinctive strokes formed the signed initials of Louis Allis—our founder and first president. He used them to signify approval on the many matters that crossed his desk each day.

To us these initials on our product symbolize a challenge—a challenge to continue building our motors to the high standards of quality and performance established by Louis Allis more than 50 years ago. To you they mean sound design, rugged construction, and ample safety factor for long life and dependability—all the things you want in electric motors.

You can't go wrong when the motor for your job carries the famous L. A. Trade-mark. Always look for it.

• The First Wisconsin National Bank was organized as the Farmers and Millers Bank in 1853 — 100 years ago — with original quarters consisting of a single room on old East Water (now North Water) Street, just a few steps north of Wisconsin Avenue. It was the era when Franklin Pierce was President... 'way back when the population of Milwaukee totaled only about 25,000. Today, as the largest bank in Wisconsin, the century-old First Wisconsin begins a new century of service geared to the continuing growth and progress of the community, state and nation . . . first in friendly personal service at 13 convenient banking offices. Choose this time-tested bank as your banking headquarters.
